CHICAGO, ILLL, July 77, 1873.

Entron CHIEF:—I have been shown copies of your lances, of the 17th and 20th inst., in which you speak of a woman connected with a Circus having captivated an editor in your town, a little over a year ago. From what I can gather as to date and circumstances, you must allude to our show, which exhibited in Troy, in the Spring of 1872, and encountered a terrible storm. Now, for the first time, have I been able to get a clue as to whom the person was that figured with our woman. But you are sadly mistak-en on one-essential point. Instead of she having captivated essential point. Instead of she having captivated ptivated her. I never saw a woman so carried away sed, I may call it. It was the ruin of her. She was the best actress we had; but after that night, she was ut-terly worthless. We had to shoot her! We shall at once take steps to enter suit for heavy damages. Poor Kenne-gunty Squizzletucket! She used to sling a nasty leg. Green be the grass above her! Pardon these tears.

Yours, respectfully, PIRRAR DENOTE. Inspector of Actors for Saxby & Dunbar's Circus, Formerly of the Paris Hippodrome.

DEFOT CHANGE.—On the first of August, a change will take place at the St. Joseph and Benver City Enfrond Depot at this place. The telegraph office of the Benver Road will be removed to this Depot, and Mr. Reveil, station agent and operator at Robinson, will take the place here. Mr. Pope, who has been agent at this station from the be lumber business. We suppose Sam Allen will still remain agent at the Junction. There is not much harmony between the Atchison and Nebraska and the Denver Roads, and they do not never to care about parking connections.

Menday. The mail train now passes here, going west, about 9 o'clock, a.m.; and going east, between 3 and 4 o'clock, p. m. The time of the mixed trains we have not learned, but they are so arranged, that persons om go from here to St. Joseph, spend seven or eight hours there, and return the same evening.

He had better play it where he is not so well known. We'll leave it to any person acquainted with G. D., whether we are not correct.

Intramative Scene.—At the Circus on Saturday, an incident occurred of a most thrilling character, and which was not on the bills. The grand entrace had taken place, and the magnificent equestrian troupe were going through their graceful figures and evolutions, every eye in the vast assemblage intently fixed upon them, when a commotion was observed at the main entrance for visitors. The attention of the crowd was drawn in that direction, and a remarkable sight met their gaze. First came the Mayor and City Marshal, then a file of special policemen, with its stars on their breasts; then two similar dies extending back from either side, and a file bringing up the rear, forming a hollow square of policemen, followed by the Coroner, who is at office Sheriff. In the centre of this square was the graceful form of a man, who was at once recognized as the beart-unsaher of the Republican office. The advice of the Chief had been taken, and a special police force had been detailed to protect him from the designing circus woman. As they steadily marched to a seat, one of the female riders in the ring was observed suddenly to halt, and glare at the guarded figure like a tigress. She seemed at one time as if about to leap over the heads of the police men, and go for him; but the guard was too strong, and at that moment one of her companions seized her house by the bridle, and dragged him along with the cavaleade. But for a moment the effect was most thrilling. We thought we heard one woman scream a little, and an old lady remarked that it made every hair on her body stand on end. The following diagram will illustrate the situation:

out. No telling what little mementoes and keepaskes may have collected in that fountain of truth during that time, or what sort of decoctions you are indulging in every time you take a drink. A well was cleaned out in this town, a few days ago, and the following is a portion of the invoice taken out of it: three well-buckets, two tin bucket lids, two old hats, two bridle bits, three syster cans, five asr-dine buxes, the remains of old boots, several hundred feet of refuse lumber and fire-wood, and about a foot of soft mud, filled with bugs, worms, and organic remains not recognizable. The folks said they thought the water had

The A little shooting took place at Doniphan, the other day. A married man living in Missouri indulged in the Doniphan County peculiar institution of playing Senator York (sometimes called "begetting") outside of the family circle. Whether the woman was married or single, or whether she lived in this County or in Missouri, we did not learn. But the man was arrested at Doniphan, and the Countable had him at the hotel. He attempted to escape by jumping out at the window; but the officer drew a revolver and fired, the ball entering the prisoner's arm below

Mr. Eptron:—What offence against the laws has Senator Ingalls committed? During his stay in lown, the other day, he was kept under close guard by the Coroner, the Mayor of Tray, a prominent legal gentlessan, and some of their deputies; and he left town in charge of a portion of the same guard. Has he been guilty of "oppression under color of office?"—or what has he done? Please enlighten me, for I have not hear able to obtain the information, also me, for I have not been able to obtain the information elsewhere.

KATZEN JAMMER.

Lange Flock of SHEEF.—Friday evening, there passed through town a facet of sheep numbering 1968. They were the property of Messar Fox & Zimmerman, who brought them from Henry County, Iowa, and were on their way to locate at Elloworth, Kamas. The sheep were all of Sne-wooled breeds, meanty Spanish Merinosa, with some Sne-blooded specimens. The proprietors are experienced absop-raisers, formerly from Ashland County, Obio, and, with their Socks, will be a valuable addition to Western Kansas.

IF Mr. Overholt, of the White Cloud Leader, called on un, last Seturday. He is a quiet sert of a person, and we couldn't get him to say much; but we gathered enough to know that he is just making things get up and dast. We were under the impression that he was a German, but we find that he is an Irishman. His name is O'Verholt, and he is a descendant of the Irish line of Kings of that name, the progenitor of whom used to go out anaking with St. Patrick.

The usual army of thieves followed the show here, last week, plying their vecation. They entered the house of Sam. Allen, station agent of the Denver Road, near the Junction, and stole a pair of gold sleeve-buttons, some eliver quarter deliars, a gold quarter, and a conneterfelt fifty deliar hill. The recent had just been papered, and pieces of the border were lying around, daubed with pasts. A lot of this border was found on the road to town, having evidently stack to the pifferer's feet.
